Advanced metering infrastructure (AMI) tracks power consumption and predicts demand

AMI expands the range of time-based programs that can be offered to consumers. Smart systems such as Energy Management Systems can make it easier for consumers to change behaviors and reduce peak periods of power consumption.

Improved maintenance efficiency via remote monitoring

WISE-EdgeLink, Edge SRP supports a wide range of power equipment protocols, energy meters, and HVAC devices. Real-time operation and power distribution status can be synchronized to help meet energy efficiency targets.

Platform scalability with distributed management and multi service access

Unlike virtual machine access, ECU gateway supports data access to a variety of cloud platforms through the standard MQTT protocol, with distributed access control architecture for different environments.
